LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

We desire to procure the services of a local agent in every Postoffice District in the State. Will our friends, or persons like services of some intelligent person in our behalf? Believing that the elevation of the Democrat may be materially extended, we make it a point to our friends in its behalf.

The favorite argument of some Republicans is, that slave labor, when brought into contact with the white laborer, degrades him. So far as this has any practical meaning, we might admit it, and still it would prove nothing for them, since the degradation consists only in reducing the price of the labor. But we deny it. This class of argument is only heard in States where the two classes of labor do not exist. It is only heard in Free States. Such an argument is never heard in Slave States. It is a theory never propounded in them, and we never hear it, except from those who believe that labor is itself degrading. Some cockney editor, who averts at his tripod for his daily bread, assumes that those whose daily bread is earned by the work of the hands are beneath him, and finds his soul revolt at the idea of having to harden his hands in useful and honorable toil. There runs through all his mind "the degradation of labor." It is his one idea, and he cannot write without betraying his intense abhorrence of it in one form or other. His very demagoguery which he addresses to the laboring man is itself an insult. If these could once get into their minds that labor, no matter by whom performed, is honorable, their difficulties would be at end.

We confess that we do not exactly know what these men mean by saying that labor is degrading in the Slave States, or the white laborer is degraded. His condition is better, it is confessed. If he is industrious and temperate, his chances of success in the world are better. There is not the classification of employments which grows out of the denser population of the free States, in which one set is placed over another, and where the struggle between capital and labor draws a stronger line of division between the two. It is a sufficient refutation of these charges to point to the numberless young men who have gone South from the free States and acquire competence.

The laboring man in the South would very quickly resent any such imputation as that he was degraded by his occupation. On the contrary, if there is any effect, the institution of slavery tends to elevate the white laborer. His color gives him a caste at once, and elevates him above the slave. He feels his superiority to the one race, and his full equality to the other. His labor is not so much of a servile character. He is only in such situations as are most profitable to him and beneficial to his employer. The thought that he is any lower in the scale than any one else, which so much affects Abolition editors, never disturbs him, and, indeed, disturbs no one who is really industrious and laborious. If there is any labor degrading, it is that of these editors, who, in one breath, proclaim the presence of the negro degrading to labor, and in the next propose to emancipate them, and take them North to compete with white laborers.

People generally find it difficult to appreciate the importance of military movements which are not accompanied by the shedding of blood. But the shedding of blood is only a means of accomplishing an end; and if the end can be accomplished without battles, so much the better. It is a very easy thing to fight; but mere fighting, even though the battle be won, is not generalship. The Duke of Alva, bigo, and tyrant though he was, knew in what generalship consists, and his opinion may be seen in the following extract:

"The great General of the Imperial army, and Minister of State of Charles V., was educated both for the field and the cabinet. He was, undoubtedly, the ablest General of his age. He was principally distinguished for his skill and prudence in choosing his positions, and for maintaining strict discipline in his troops. He often obtained, by patient strategem, those advantages which would have been thrown away or surely required by a precipitate encounter with the enemy. Being at Cologne, and avoiding, as he always did, an engagement with the Dutch troops, the Archbishop urged him to fight. 'The object of a General,' answered the Duke, 'is not to fight, but to conquer; he fights enough who obtains the victory.' During a career of so many years, he never lost a battle."

Some Republican papers seem anxious to deny that "the Governors" intend to meet on their mission of mischief, as they did some time ago, and finish what was not well done to their notion before. We are disposed to believe that they are not going to meet just now. Several States vote shortly, and their meeting before didn't help their cause. It would do worse now. These Governors are calculating politicians, and understand the results at the ballot-box. They will not tempt fortune again. They have met once too often already, and they know it. Morgan and Morton were not at the former meeting. They are too smart to put their feet in such traps.

A list of the vote in the Iowa regiments is published by Republican sheets, and it confirms the charge that Democratic tickets were destroyed, and tickets written in pencil rejected. They give the vote of twenty-six regiments, and they average 288 votes each. Of course this is not half the vote of these regiments. What became of the rest of the vote? It was rejected, or not taken, as has been charged. The authorities had better not publish the list; for it seems to confirm what was charged, of unfairness in taking or returning the vote, which gave, of course, a large Republican majority.

Greeley, say his admirers, has enough for two heads. With such heads one might as well expect him to go right as a skiff to run itself because it had two sculls.

We have a number of iron-clads, but Mr. Secretary Welles doesn't seem disposed to put his irons in the fire.

From Yesterday's Evening News.

A General Movement of the Federal Army of the Potowmack.

The Rebels Evacuate Winchester.

Appointments in Washington.

Bragg still "Bragging"—Friends Don't Believe in Him.

Gen. Rosecrans Assigned to the Command of the 14th Corps.

(Special to the Tribune.)

BOLIVAR HEIGHTS, Oct. 27.

As the preliminary account has been permitted from headquarters, there can be no impropriety in stating that a movement has at last commenced. A portion of Gen. Burnside's troops left Pleasant Valley yesterday morning, and moved down the river, five miles below Harper's Ferry, a pontoon bridge has been thrown across the Potowmack. The remainder, embracing the three corps under Burnside's command, will speedily follow. Simultaneously with this the troops at Sharpsburg, composed of Hooker's old corps, now commanded by Reynolds, and the corps of Fitz John Porter, are also on the march. They probably encamped last night near the head of Pleasant Valley, ready to follow Burnside's troops.

The elements are unpropitious. Until yesterday morning the roads were dry and in splendid condition for marching. But soon after daylight a cold, drizzling rain commenced, and has continued without interruption up to this morning. The roads are already very muddy, and after being knee-deep by a few thousand infantry will be almost impassable. The storm is exceeding severe.

The rebels are retreating. Until yesterday morning the roads were dry and in splendid condition for marching. But soon after daylight a cold, drizzling rain commenced, and has continued without interruption up to this morning. The roads are already very muddy, and after being knee-deep by a few thousand infantry will be almost impassable. The storm is exceeding severe.

The small-pox has broken out with unusual violence both among the troops and the inhabitants. But below this semi-placid surface is an undercurrent of sleepless vigilance and active preparation. Before many weeks this listless multitude will give way to clamorous excitement. The army will be at work again.

THE SITUATION.

About 9,000 men are estimated to be here, immediately under Gen. Grant's eye, and of course speculation is rife as to the plan of future operations, and the probable events of the campaign. Of these but little can be safely predicted, and still less is known. That Jackson is to be permanently garrisoned on a large scale by Federal troops seems certain from the extent of the new regiments which may have been formed for that purpose. It is the old story over again—but the blame must finally fall nowhere save on the heads of them all, and there is but one man in the nation capable of baulking a final campaign for the sake of deposing a General.

A NIGHT CHASE AFTER REBELS IN THE CONVENT.—Friday afternoon information was received by Col. Leighton that a large party of rebels, some of whom were fugitives from Gratiot-street prison, was marching at the residence of a Mr. Noble, some eight miles from the city, on the Bonham road, between the Olive-street plank road and the Clayton road. Capt. Curry, and a posse of U. S. Police, started soon after dark to arrest the party, the understood object of the latter being to go to the rebel army.

When the detachment had proceeded about seven miles out, and arrived opposite the residence of a well-known and wealthy secessionist, a signal was given and the rebels were fired and repelled by certain of the inhabitants, whose names have been learned, and who will receive the attention they seek. Captain Curry and his force pushed rapidly on for a mile, and then came up with three men on horseback. They were captured, and then avowed that they were going south to join the rebel army. They had soldier's equipments, blankets, ammunition, &c. —St. Louis Dem., 27th.

THE LOSSES AT CORINTH.

(From the Grenada Appeal, Oct. 13.)

The Yankees lost at Corinth is reported at three hundred killed and one thousand wounded. The Confederate loss is estimated at eight hundred killed and eighteen hundred wounded—the latter in the hands of the Federals.

One burial party of 300, sent to Corinth, were seized and returned to Mobile as prisoners.

THE SUCCESSION OF GEN. VAN DORN.

Gen. Pemberton, who has been appointed to supersede Van Dorn, and has recently been put in command of the Department of the Mississippi, belonged to the Yankee Army in the spring of 1861. He was in command at the siege of James Island, Charleston, South Carolina, and has a reputation for a large share of caution.

SHOCKING MURDERS BY MORGAN'S REBELS.

Mr. Bon Holliday, of New York, gives a thrilling story of the scenes on board the steamer Golden Rule.

The Yankees lost at Corinth is reported at three hundred killed and one thousand wounded. The Confederate loss is estimated at eight hundred killed and eighteen hundred wounded—the latter in the hands of the Federals.

One burial party of 300, sent to Corinth, were seized and returned to Mobile as prisoners.

FUTURE OPERATIONS.

The general impression seems to be that new regiments will be placed on garrison duty here, and that, within a few weeks, a column of troops will move from this vicinity, and converging in front of General Price's position, compel him to accept battle. It is possible, as entire departmental troops are to be sent to the South, that it is probable, all units, save General Hurst, just put in command of a district, with his headquarters nominally at Corinth, will be sent to the South. He is, however, expected to remain here, growing in strength.

There are crossroads here, at home, who predict nothing but disaster to the offending winter, should one come.

There are a good many cases of lypoid fever.

A reconnaissance made yesterday evening by Generals Whipple's and Fenton's divisions, of Pleasanton's cavalry, to Lovettown, reveals the fact that there is no one.

General McCull will probably be removed to his command, in charge being on file against him.

The decision of the court of inquiry into the case of General Mansfield, though not formally announced, fully acquits that officer of the charges preferred against him.

New York, Oct. 23.

Gen. Bragg has furnished an official report of the battle at Perryville, Kentucky, in which he claims a great victory, which, he says, only for the approach of night, would have been completed by driving our troops from their position.

The Dispatch of the 21st, says Bragg's army has retired to a strong position which it would be impossible to attack. General Bragg, it says, has secured 4,700 men loaded with provisions which has been brought away in safety with his army. He lost 2,500 barrels of pork, which was left at Lexington and fell into the hands of the Yankees.

Great dissatisfaction was felt among the officers of Bragg's army at falling back, and many of them literally wept when the order was given.

The conclusions to be drawn from all the news in our possession continues the Dispatch, are, that Bragg has either met such an overwhelming force of the enemy, and successfully retreated before it, or withdrawn stores of provisions, or that he has been too timid, made forced marches, and fought and wearied his troops for an object which he had not daring enough to accomplish.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.

The following has been received at the Headquarters of the Army:

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 27.

To Maj. Gen. H. W. Halleck, General-in-Chief.

Brig. Gen. Davidson informs me that Lieut. Col. Lear, with a force of cavalry, has pursued the enemy from Greenville near Thomasville, Oregon county, where, on the 20th, he attacked and completely routed Col. Brown from a high hill, killing 8 and taking 18 prisoners, 25 stacks of arms and 12 horses. The rebel forces of McBride and Parsons seem to be retreating towards Yellville, Arkansas.

S. R. COOPER, Maj. Gen. Com.

BELMONT, Oct. 28.

In reply to a resolution adopted at the meeting of the People's party, recently held in Springfield, recommending Charles Francis Adams for Senator, in the place of Chas. Sumner, John Quincy Adams, son of the former, writes a letter declining such use of his father's name. The letter says:

"Knowing as I do the paramount importance which Mr. Adams attaches to unity and harmony of action at this time, I think it proper to say that, having been consulted as to such use of his name, he has refused absolutely to consent to it."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.

By direction of the President, the State of Tennessee, east of the Tennessee River, and such parts of Northern Alabama as may be taken possession of by the United States troops, will constitute the Department of the Cumberland, to be under command of Gen. Rosecrans. The troops under the command of Gen. Grant will constitute the thirteenth army corps, and those assigned to the command of Gen. Rosecrans will constitute the fourteenth army corps.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 28.

Three female prisoners succeeded in making their escape from the city jail at Covington, on Sunday night. Their names are Ellen Beatty, Elizabeth Hopkins and Henrietta Cole. The former was charged with vagrancy, and the other two with arson.

A LYRICAL GEM.

The following lullaby is sufficiently tender and musical to make every woman who reads it wish for a baby to sing it to:

Come to my arms, you little ones off Let me gather you, body and soul, to myself Your scintillant eyes and hair Are like the stars in the sky, And twinkling feet to golden crown.

Close your eyes, my little ones, And let me kiss them, And the stars look down And smile upon your cheeks.

Sleep, baby boy;

The little birdie rests, Downy and soft,

In the nest of birds;

The lambskins are safe;

In the shepherd's warm fold;

The butterflies' gold.

The violet nodes

On the daisy's dream;

The lark's song of the stream;

And the mother's calm,

The stars look down

And smile upon your cheeks.

COMING HOME.

They are coming home, coming home, Father and lover, father and son, To rest, for their work is done.

They come from hospital, pocket and field,

In silent companies, slowly winding.

This was a father of women and man,

Gray-haired but full and strong of limb;

The layout flashed and flashed again;

And the old man's eyes grew dim!

He was a form of manly grace;

The honest face, the smiling air,

With a curl of silk hair.

There was a bright-eyed, venturesome boy;

From the pernicious picket-ground,

There was a dreamer, who in his dream of joy,

A giddy, gay, foolish boy;

And there was a lad, full of fun,

With the flying sword and stirring hand,

From the distant waving hand.

Now there are just two persons that have the right to complain of the publication of this letter. One is General Scott, and the other is Mr. Seward. Not one word of complaint has ever been made by either of them, and if he has, I am quite ready to answer them in the complaint made to me for any injustice they may have suffered. That letter was obtained by me in a manner which is a secret. [Laughter.] And, as it is very odd, a most accomplished and cultivated lady is helping me to keep it. [Great laughter.] You will see, therefore, enacted from now to election day of "The Lady keeps the Secret" [flattered laughter]. The material for the trial to know whether it is authentic, and for us to concede, whether the contents are of a real importance or not, and whether, being known, they should be acted upon. What was wanted to say the other night was that its information being given to the President should have regarded it.

AWARDS FOR 1,000 ARMY HORSES.—Capt. Scott, at noon day before yesterday opened the following bids for one thousand horses for army use at Cincinnati. The following are the bidders and prices:

A Word of Apology.

Our press is being repaired, and our paper is worked off in another office. Our early mail failed yesterday, owing to damage of machinery.

We will have our own press in order in a day or two, and trust there will be no more mail-failures. We are sure our patrons cannot be more disturbed by them than ourselves.

UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT.—Monday afternoon the Louisville Life Club were members who aimed at the target, passed through the body of a man named Adam Miller, who was driving, opposite to where the target stood, some cows. The unfortunate man died that night about twelve o'clock. He leaves a wife and several children. Coroner Gill held an inquest on the body.

GENERAL DAVIS INDICTED.—An indictment for manslaughter was returned by the grand jury of the Jefferson Circuit Court Monday against Brigadier General Jeff C. Davis, the accused having caused the death of Major General Wm. Nelson. The hearing of the case was continued until the next term of the court.

FIRE.—Yesterday afternoon, about half past one o'clock, a frame stable, wood-house, sheds, etc., in the rear of the residence of Mr. Whipple, who lives on Portland Avenue, below the Marine Hospital were burned. The engines were not called out on account of the scarcity of water in that vicinity. The coal was all that was saved.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS.—Tuesday, Oct. 28. The Police Court was entirely void of interest this morning; a good indication of the improved state of morality of our city.

A warrant against George Howard for passing counterfeit money was dismissed, it being proven that he came in possession of the money honestly.

The infamous rebel preacher Scobee, whose character was recently referred by the Methodist Conference at Owensboro to a committee, with one year to report thereon, is at the head of a gang of rebel robbers who infest Warren and Butler counties. Scobee is a major in the rebel service.

INQUEST NO. 32.—Held October 28th, at Germantown, on the body of Adam Miller (German). Verdict, came to his death by a wound through the body, caused by a ball fired from a rifle, in the hands of a member of the German Rifle Club. Name unknown. JAMES C. GILL, Coroner.

There are at present upwards of four thousand sick and wounded in the hospitals in this city. They are getting along finely, receiving every care and attention from the Medical Department, under the charge of Dr. Head.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A bridge builder, by the name of James Sullivan, of this city, fell from Green river bridge yesterday. He was from forty-five to fifty years of age. His remains were brought to this city by last night's train.

Twelve hundred convalescent sick and wounded soldiers arrived from Lexington and Frankfort yesterday. They will be forwarded to their different regiments immediately.

Major General Thomas L. Crittenden is at present with his family in this city. We are gratified to see that his health is perfect.

The Mobile Register admits that nearly 10,000 rebels have taken the oath of allegiance to the United States Government.

THANKS.—We are thankful to our young friend, Will T. Hamilton, D. S., for favors.

Immediate Help for the Sick and Wounded Soldiers.

We are requested by the Sanitary Commission to say that a large number of sick soldiers have arrived here, for whom immediate aid is requested. The Medical Director has taken Judge Griffin's house, on the Newburg road, and other buildings, for hospitals, and will furnish them at once. But the sick have been sent in so suddenly, that it is impossible, for a few days, to have the requisite arrangements made for food perfectly made. In the meantime, our humane citizens can render great service by contributing suitable articles of food.

The Sanitary Commission, therefore, earnestly request that soup, corn-bread, stewed fruits and other appropriate articles be sent to their rooms, on Fifth street, by ten o'clock this morning, and every morning until the hospitals have their arrangements for the comfort of the men complete. A wagon will be in readiness to convey the food at once to the hospitals.

MORE REBEL PRISONERS.—Capt. W. H. Garrett, of company K, 10th Ohio Volunteers, with a squad of twelve men, reached our city last night with thirty-seven rebel prisoners, most of them were in Humphrey Marshall's command. Their names are as follows:

William Dalton, Sam. Cox, Dudley Brutton, J. C. Johnson, Alfred Reeman, W. D. Thorp, T. J. Wilburn, Y. W. Kennedy, J. C. Smith, H. N. Laws, Merritt Waite, Joshua Morgan, C. W. Fletcher, Jasen Pettis, T. A. Clark, Jas. M. Hyatt, N. B. Phillips, P. W. Hyatt, John L. Finner, Jas. Cardwell, W. M. Morgan, R. C. Lanford, W. M. Richardson, G. W. McKinley, Wm. Irving, A. Vallandingham, M. Dunn, Captain Childs, B. F. Young, H. Woosley, D. J. Futch, Milton Philips, Jas. Gibson, Thomas Moore, W. A. Norris, T. F. Johnson, and M. K. Rogers.

PERSONAL.—Col. L. J. Bradford, and Scott McKibben, Esq., of Augusta, Kentucky, arrived in the city on business of importance with Gov. Robinson. They leave this morning for Frankfort. We learn from Mr. McKibben our fact in relation to the fight at Augusta, which we do not remember having seen in print: After our small force, under Col. Bradford, was captured, and the rebels left the town, they sent in a flag of truce, asking permission to bury their dead—thus acknowledging that they had been whipped. If all other communities had acted nobly, as did the Augustians, John Morgan would have left the State, or been cut to pieces before this time.

GENERAL ROSECRANS.—The telegraph tells us various stories about General Rosecrans; but we presume it will be acknowledged that he does not supersede General Buell. If assigned to a command in West Tennessee, he did not need to go to Cincinnati—his headquarters would be at Corinth where he was. We presume he is ordered to report to Gen. Wright. One rumor has it that he is to supersede Gen. Morgan, which we do not believe. Our opinion, and it is only our opinion, is that he supersedes General Gordon Granger, and will advance with the Cincinnati army, as rapidly as possible, to East Tennessee, and then co-operate with Gen. Buell in the middle of the State.

RUNAWAY—Mule Killed.—Yesterday morning two horses, attached to a wagon, ran away, and the horses, on the corner of Main and Market streets, going up the latter street, with full speed until they came in contact with a mule's side, killing him instantly. The horses were stopped. There is too much carelessness on the part of drivers leaving their teams standing in the streets, and they should be more cautious about it.

SICK AND WOUNDED.—We publish this morning a long list of sick and wounded who have been received at this point since Monday. The number arrived, mostly sick, has been 2,100; and for the accommodation of this large number, extra buildings have been taken by the authorities. Among others, the Masonic Temple, the Blind Asylum, and a large warehouse of Mr. Griffin's, on the Newburg road. If more accommodations are needed, the property of active rebel sympathizers will be unhesitatingly appropriated.

GREEN RIVER BRIDGE.—We learn from Blane Marshall, Esq., the accomplished Superintendent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, that the Green river bridge will be completed on Friday evening. Passenger trains will go direct to Bowling Green on Saturday morning next, without any change of cars. This is a quick job, and Messrs. Boley & Fink deserve much credit for their great skill and assiduity in putting up bridges on this road for the last year. Some of their great feats are unsurpassed.

GENERAL ROSECRANS.—The telegraph tells us various stories about General Rosecrans; but we presume it will be acknowledged that he does not supersede General Buell. If assigned to a command in West Tennessee, he did not need to go to Cincinnati—his headquarters would be at Corinth where he was. We presume he is ordered to report to Gen. Wright. RUNAWAY—Mule Killed.—Yesterday morning two horses, attached to a wagon, ran away, and the horses, on the corner of Main and Market streets, going up the latter street, with full speed until they came in contact with a mule's side, killing him instantly. The horses were stopped. There is too much carelessness on the part of drivers leaving their teams standing in the streets, and they should be more cautious about it.

GENERAL ROSECRANS.—The telegraph tells us various stories about General Rosecrans; but we presume it will be acknowledged that he does not supersede General Buell. If assigned to a command in West Tennessee, he did not need to go to Cincinnati—his headquarters would be at Corinth where he was. We presume he is ordered to report to Gen. Wright. One rumor has it that he is to supersede Gen. Morgan, which we do not believe. Our opinion, and it is only our opinion, is that he supersedes General Gordon Granger, and will advance with the Cincinnati army, as rapidly as possible, to East Tennessee, and then co-operate with Gen. Buell in the middle of the State.

The Blood Purifier and Pills are the most active and thorough pills that have ever been introduced.

They act so directly upon the Liver, exciting that organ to such an extent as that the system does not relax into its former condition, which is too apt to be the case with a purgative pill.

They are really a
